

Media Statement – COVID-19 outbreak at Main Street Terrace Long Term Care Home – Toronto

- Dr. Rhonda Collins, Chief Medical Officer, Revera

October 23, 2020

Toronto Public Health has confirmed that 27 residents at Main Street Terrace Long Term Care Home in Toronto have tested positive for COVID-19 since the outbreak was declared on October 15.

TPH also confirms that five staff members have tested positive for COVID-19. One of these cases has resolved, and the other four staff members remain at home in self-isolation.

We are working closely with TPH officials to maintain pandemic outbreak protocols and infection control practices. We are doing enhanced cleaning, frequently disinfecting high touch surfaces like handrails and doors, resident rooms, common areas and staff rooms. We greatly appreciate the support of the infection prevention and control team and others from Michael Garron Hospital.

All residents are monitored closely for symptoms twice daily and are tested if they present any potential signs or symptoms of the virus or if there has been possible exposure.

All staff are screened at the beginning and end of their shifts and are being cohorted to work in assigned resident areas. All staff are required to wear an appropriate mask and eye protection in the home.

All residents on the second and third floors have been placed in isolation. Meals are being served in rooms with supervision and assistance as required. Recreation programs are being delivered via one-on-one activities to maintain social engagement during this period of isolation.

We are regularly updating residents, their families and staff on the status of the outbreak. All indoor and outdoor visits have been cancelled during the outbreak.

We recognize how difficult these measures are for residents and their families and we appreciate their patience and understanding as we put these precautions in place for the safety of our residents.

Revera continues to do everything we can to keep our residents and employees safe as we work to prevent the spread of COVID-19 at our long term care homes and retirement residences.

