

Comparing Retirement Residences

Helping you make the right choice.

Are you ready for an exciting phase of your life? Today's retirement residences offer a wider range of services, amenities and accommodations than ever before.

To help you sort through the options and to find the right fit to keep living your life your way, we've designed this Retirement Residence Checklist. Seniors and their families can use this checklist to ask the best questions, assess the most important features, and make the most useful comparisons – all of which will help you arrive at the best decision for your new home.

As part of the selection process:

1. Develop a list. Start with friends, relatives or your health care professional to get recommendations of possible residences. With all the options, you want a referral from someone you trust, so ask around.
2. Start your research. Call each residence and ask a few questions about things like location, types of accommodation, services and programs, costs, availability, etc. Request some sales materials to review.
3. Schedule a tour. By visiting, you'll see the residence for yourself, get a feel for the place, and be able to fill out some of the key items on your checklist. Sit down with the person who will lead the tour, and tell them about yourself, your lifestyle and what you're seeking in a residence. Ask how their residence will meet your needs.
4. Imagine living there. Just as you would when buying a car, take a "test drive". If possible, arrange to attend a few activities and try a meal or two. Visit a number of times, preferably at different times of the day, and talk to residents and staff about life there. Ask about trial stays, so you can actually live in the residence for a few days to learn whether you've found the right place.

By planning and weighing all the considerations that are important to you, you're sure to make an informed decision, and find a residence that gives you freedom, comfort and support – a place to maintain your independence, and live an active and fulfilling life.

Note: Not all of our residences offer every item on the checklist. During a tour of our residence, please ask about the options that are offered for that residence.
